Foreman: I never heard a man talk so fast in all my life.
Supervisor: Why shouldn't he? His father was a tobacco auctioneer and his mother was a woman.

It's always amusing when a supposedly sick piece of propaganda backfires.

Some of the professional labor politicians have been poking fun at President Eisenhower's "Big Business" cabinet, forgetting that they too are Big Business and equally vulnerable.

The Wall Street Journal has just discovered that Big Labor has the same personal taste for good things that Big Business has. The WSJ wrapped in all up in an editorial titled "Brothers Behind the Wheel" in the issue of August 30. Here's what the financial paper published:

In Cincinnati the other day Mr. William F. Schnitzler, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, made a speech in which he had some things to say about President Eisenhower's "Cadillac cabinet."

His remark came during an expression of sympathy to Mr. James P. Mitchell, the Cabinet Labor member. "No Secretary of Labor — genuinely devoted to the working man's interest — could possibly sit in the same Cadillac as the 'Cadillac cabinet'."

The implication, of course, was that anybody who owns a Cadillac is a fatcat whose special interests are kicking the working man around. In short, an economic royalist.

Well, John L. Lewis is president of the United Mine Workers. Dave Beck is president of the Teamster's Union. George Meany is president of the A. F. of M. All these gentlemen own cars. You guessed it.

Forest Fire Season Here, Caution Urged

As the fall of the year of 1954 approaches, Arkansas enters its third year of drought. Appeals for help are being made by various agencies and individuals in a monetary form due to extreme conditions of dry weather, of which no let up is in sight. A large number of counties in this state will receive financial aid from the government as a result of the current drought.

We, of the Arkansas State Forestry Commission, would also like to issue an appeal for help. The memories of the fall of 1953, if the present conditions continue, could be made to look mediocre. It was during the fall of that year that history was made to open its pages and swallow the worst forest fire season ever to be had in the state of Arkansas. The southern part of the state suffered the largest of the losses due to forest fires.

Our state is broken down by natural boundaries, county lines, etc. into Forest Protection Units of the Arkansas State Forestry Commission. These units are then broken down into districts, in which there is a Ranger to every district. The units are made up of from 4 to 5 counties on the average and cover several thousand acres of land. All of the units are fire prone, with a number from 2 to 4 to the unit. This above information will enable the reader to understand what is meant when the term "unit" is referred to.

As it was stated in a previous paragraph the area hardest hit in Arkansas during the fall of 1953 was the southern portion, which would be Forest Protection Units No. 8 and 9. Unit No. 8 has headquarters at El Dorado and Unit 9 has headquarters at Stamps. These two units are composed of Lafayette, Columbia, Hempstead, Ouachita, and Union counties.

In the above two units during 1952, 1,716 fires occurred and destroyed 125,000 acres of timberland in the above mentioned counties. One of these fires (believed to be the record for Arkansas to date) burned 65,000 acres in Nevada County before suppressed. Had not the Governor declared an emergency and provided help from the

Hurricane Toll 48; Another One Developing

By ROBERT T. SHEERAN

BOSTON UP — At least 48 persons were known dead and property damage mounted to nearly $300,000,000 today in the near-hurricane Carol's 12-hour rampage along the heavily-populated northeastern seaboard.

As the week-old storm blew itself out in Eastern Canada hurricane hunters investigated a new tropical disturbance east of Florida which may develop into the season's fourth hurricane.

The new storm was moving northwest at 25 miles per hour, with winds up to 50 miles per hour, at a point about 750 miles east of Miami, Fla.

Emergency power crews from Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York were rushed into New England to help restore electric service to an estimated 3,000,000 persons.

Governors in all New England states mobilized National Guard, state and local police and civil defense workers to aid in the gigantic job of clearing highways and protecting damaged property from looters.

Disaster headquarters were set up in scores of communities to feed and shelter the homeless and to track down missing persons.

Gov. Dennis J. Roberts declared a state of emergency in Rhode Island, smallest and hardest-hit of the nine states whipped by the hurricane.

Major communication disruptions were reported with nearly 3,000 telephones knocked out of service from New York to Maine.

The death toll included: Rhode Island 16 Massachusetts 11 New York five, New Hampshire and Maine three each, New Jersey 2, and Connecticut and Vermont one each.

Thousands of minor injuries were reported, especially along the coastline where gusts of up to 125 miles per hour were accompanied by tides.

Complete power failures were reported in Providence and Newport, R. I., New Bedford, Mass., New London, Conn., and scores of smaller communities.

New Hurricane Forming in the Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla. (U) — A tropical storm with winds of 45 miles per hour in squalls formed today in an easterly wave in the Atlantic.

At 9 a. m. the storm was centered about 675 miles east of Daytona Beach, Fla., moving northward at 18 to 20 mph.

Highest winds were estimated at 60 to 65 mph in squalls east of the center with gusts extending outward 100 to 150 miles in the eastern semicircle and a short distance west.

Grandy Norton, chief storm forecaster at the Miami Weather Bureau, said the storm was expected to move northward at a slightly slower rate during the next 24 hours.

Shipping in the path of the storm was advised to exercise caution. The tropical disturbance, named Dolly for the fourth letter in the alphabet, developed from an easterly wave which has been under close observation the past two days.

One of the Few Remaining Signs of Prosperity Is That Pawnbrokers Are Doing Well

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (U) — One little known sign of prosperity today is the fact that pawnbrokers are doing well.

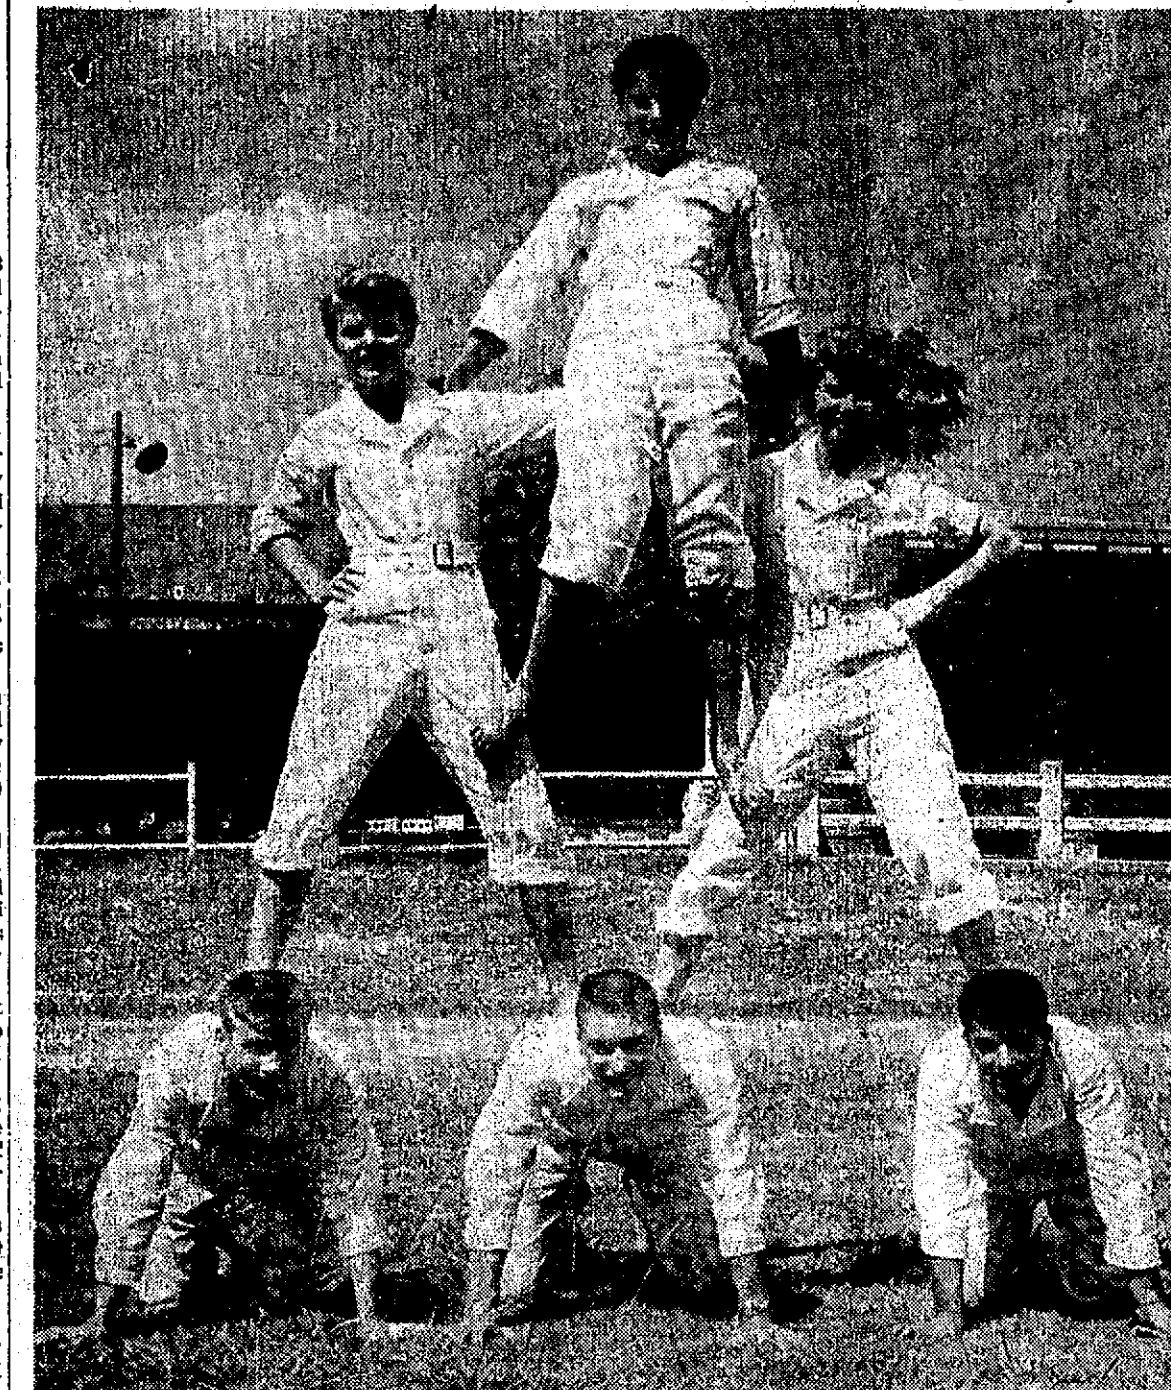

"Our business is better in good times than bad times," explained Clarence Kaskel, 65, who likes being called "the Tiffany of pawn brokers."

"When people earn more money, they like to spend more. And if they see something they want and don't have any cash, they don't mind pawning something else temporarily to get it."

"There are a lot of misconceptions in the public mind about our industry. For example, few realize that women pawn things more often than men do, or that 80 percent of pawned valuables are reclaimed within a few months."

If you want to heck your Uncle Willie's broken-stringed old college mandolin for two bucks, please don't bother Kaskel. On the other hand if you want a $50,000 ad-

Only Political Issue Lost, Demos Don't

(LEAD GOPS DON'T)

By JACK BELL

CINCINNATI (U) — Vice President Nixon said today Democrats have lost their only big political issue because an economic recession has failed to appear and the Republicans stand to retain control of Congress.

Nixon, here to speak at a work shop session of the Republican National Committee, told a news conference he does not see any compelling issue by which the Democrats can take over the Senate and House in the Nov. 2 election.

"I don't see any issue that can be effectively," Nixon said. "The one they relied upon an economic recession has been pulled out from under them."

In response to questions, Nixon said that he recognizes there are some states in which the economic situation is spotty. He said that where such depressed areas find Republicans now in office there is a chance the GOP will lose seats in the House.

Censure Group Rejects McCarthy Again; Move On to Retire Stevens

Report Supplies Fuel Against the Senator

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Senate censure committee tentatively rejected today a contention by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy that it should junk charges that he showed contempt for a 1952 Senate investigating group.

The special committee studying censure charges against McCarthy then proceeded to conclude presentation of evidence that he manifested contempt for a Senate Rules subcommittee of the 82nd Congress that looked into his finances.

Having rebuffed McCarthy twice, the committee moved on to the second of the five general charges on the basis of which his critics contend he should be censured that he has "abused" his colleagues in the Senate.

McCarthy's attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, challenged both the authority and the methods of the 1952 Senate elections subcommittee which investigated McCarthy's finances.

Censure Committee Chairman Arthur V. Watkins (Utah) said, however, that his group is considering only whether McCarthy showed contempt by refusing to testify truthfully whether the charges against him were true or false.

Watkins said the Senate itself, when it gets the censure committee report this fall, may want to consider McCarthy's argument that the election subcommittee exceeded its authority.

Williams said his client could not have been in contempt of a group which was acting without authority.

He said 40 per cent of the 1952 investigation concerned McCarthy's activities prior to his 1946 election to the Senate. He argued that the subcommittee was empowered to inquire only back to 1946.

Therefore, he said, McCarthy was justified in his charge that the group was wasting the taxpayers' money.

Williams earlier objected to the contempt charge on grounds that the issue arose in a previous Congress, not in this one.

He objected today that the 1952 subcommittee refused to allow McCarthy to confront his accused and cross-examine them. Watkins ruled that the present investigation is concerned only with the fact that the subcommittee tried to get

Pressure Building to Make Germany, Spain Key Defense Nations, Kick Out France

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (U) — Strong pressures are reported building up in the government to make Germany and Spain, rather than France, the mainstays of U.S. defense strategy for Western Europe.

A major debate on France's role in this country's political-military policies was forecast today by informed officials, who said the central question, starkly stated, is this:

Should the United States switch its main strategic emphasis, with more of its military aid dollars and supplies, from France to her neighbors on the east and west?

Secretary of State Dulles announced yesterday that France's rejection of the proposed European Defense Community, which envisioned a 12-division German army, impels the United States "to reappraise its foreign policies."

At the same time he demanded American-British French action to give West Germany sovereignty. He called also for an emergency meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to consider the whole situation.

The United States may propose at this NATO meeting that West Germany should be armed directly under NATO. It was learned Dulles feels that should be the mission problem of the special session.

Dulles wants the 14-nation NATO meeting to be held at cabinet level — a full-dress session of foreign defense and finance ministers — and this probably cannot be arranged before October 1, at the earliest.

In a mood of acknowledged frustration thought not despair, Dulles left Washington by plane last night for Manila to join ministers of seven other nations starting Monday, in concluding negotiation of a Southeast Asia defense alliance.

It is not yet certain that Washington will take the lead in formally proposing German membership in NATO. Some officials say that as a matter of tactics, it would be better for one of Germany's neighbors to make the move.

The United States and Britain are expected to press France, meanwhile, for prompt agreement for sovereignty for West Germany through a series of "peace contracts." These agreements have been dependent upon creation of EDC. Now Washington and London want to scrap that condition. The idea is to give West Germany as much control over her affairs as is possible in the light of East-West division of the country, blocking a formal peace treaty.

By PRESTON GROVER

PARIS (U) — The focus of the struggle to save the Western Alliance shifted today from France to West Germany. Allied diplomats pondered what new price the Germans would ask now in return for putting their soldiers on the defense line against Communist aggression.

One Western diplomat predicted that West Germany would demand and get the right to rearm without the restrictions the "new

Feed Dealers List Best Plan 'Possible'

LITTLE ROCK (U) — Feed dealers and farm organization representatives have set out a seven-point program, reluctantly tagging it "the best that can be had under the circumstances."

Meeting yesterday with Gov. Cherry's Drought Committee, the dealers and farm leaders agreed that "within the framework of funds available and federal regulations, the program is the best that can be worked out."

State Sen. Marvin Mellon of Jonesboro, chairman of the Drought Committee, said the program is "seeking some relief for small crop farmers, as well as small herdsmen."

Points of the adopted program were:

1. Drought distressed owners of livestock will apply to their county farm agents for eligibility rating to participate in the hay purchase and pasture phases. Application will be approved by county committees.

2. The County Farm Agent will issue subsidy approvals on forms for hay and pasture.

3. Procurement of the hay, quality and delivery will be the responsibility of the feed dealers.

4. Because of the railroads' refusal to cut freight rates, hay trucks will be used wherever possible. In 1953 railroads shipped hay at half rates.

5. Because of hay and feed costs, cattleman, large and small, are urged to make hay.

Farm Bureau Calls Meets to Air Problems

Farm Bureau is conducting county community meetings during September to consider current farm problems and to develop action to meet these problems to the best advantage, announced Ned Bush, president of the county farm organization today.

A winter feed and cover crop discussion with other drought aid that are available will be held by county agent Oliver L. Adams.

Special emphasis will be given planting, weeding, and spraying, and pasture management.

One of the members of the Board of Directors of the county Farm Bureau, 1954, will be elected at each of the township meetings. Policy to direct the organization will be made through resolutions acted upon at the township meetings and later brought before the county organization.

The first of the meetings will be held at Spring Hill Vocational Agriculture building Wednesday evening. Other meetings this week will be at Blevins Vocational Agriculture building Thursday evening and at Quincey school Friday evening. Each meeting will start promptly at 7:30 p. m. with a sound educational film. All farm families are invited.

Meetings after this week, the date are: St. Paul Church, September 8; Columbus school, September 9; Palmox school, September 13; McCaskill school, September 15; and the county Farm Bureau building on September 20; Fulton school on September 21; and Hope in the county room on September 22. All meetings open at 7:30 p. m.

All Around the Town

By The Star Staff

In a letter to the Park and Recreation Commission, Mike Kelly, chairman, Mrs. Fay Anderson had this to say. "We had some one from out of town write to the Star praising our city park. I would like to do that also as my family has had the use of it many times this summer and in the past. Most of all, and this also concerns the park, I wish to thank all who are responsible for our Little and Pony League teams for making it possible for them to play. Our recreational director is one that any town would be proud to have. I have two boys who have been playing on a Little League team, they have fun doing it and I have had more fun watching. I'm sure all mothers and fathers feel the same as I do about this." Mrs. Anderson concludes.

Registration for classes at Texarkana College will be held Sept. 7-8-9-10. The bus will leave the Courthouse at Hope Thursday, Sept. 9 at 9 a. m. Students may catch the bus between points by identifying themselves to the driver.

Registration of evening classes will be held Sept. 7-10 at 7 p. m. with classes offered being determined by registration.
